BATTLESHIP MISSISSIPPI, THE FIRST MODERN WAR VESSEL TO NAVIGATE THE FATHER OF WATERS.

There was great rejoicing at New Orleans when the big battleship Mississippi reached that city on her cruise up the Father of Waters toward Natchez, where the presentation of a silver service, the gift of the people of the state for which she is named, awaited her. Despite predictions of disaster on the part of navy experts the 13,000 ton monster, the first modern battleship to navigate the Mississippi river, reached New Orleans without the slightest mishap. There was much rivairy among the river pilots as to who should have the honor of taking the ship up the river. The task fell to Captain T. A. Wilson, one of the most experienced men on the river. He, with other pilots, declared that the vessel, which draws twenty-seven feet of water, could proceed 300 miles up the stream m perfect safety.
